FORMER OWNER OF TIMES HERE AFTER 25 YEARS

Ralph R. Buvinger
Renews Old Acquaintances After Long Absence.

PLEASED WITH RAPID STRIDES

Ralph R. Buvinger, who bought The Gettysburg Times from an assignee during the panic of 1907 for $500 and by dint of hard personal plugging literally placed the newspaper "on its feet," returned to Gettysburg, Monday, and expressed "amazement" at the growth of his "infant."

"I can scarcely believe," Mr. Buvinger said, "that the enterprise which I purchased when it was drawing its last breath has grown to its present proportions both as a news-gathering agency and as a commercial printing plant."

Although nearing his fifty-fifth birthday anniversary, Mr. Buvinger is still filled with the same "go-getter" spirit which inspired him when he bought The Gettysburg Times during those dark days of 1907.

When he took over The Times, Mr. Buvinger found its uncertain circulation tottering between 400 and 500; its plant and equipment antiquated and his own capital extremely low.

Mr. Buvinger was business manager of The Patriot, a Harrisburg newspaper, when Madison A. Garvin, of Gettysburg, asked him to come to Gettysburg and rejuvenate The Times. At first Mr. Buvinger was reluctant to give up a good salary in the field as publisher of a small-town daily.

Nevertheless, he came to Gettysburg, and while talking with the attorney for the assignee he said, "I wouldn't give more than $500 for the plant."

"Sold," the attorney said, and no one was more surprised than Mr. Buvinger. That was in July, 1907.

Hand-Set Type
The newspaper was then located in what is now the Hill coffee shoppe, Chambersburg street. The staff comprised the late John Garvin, as editor, proofreader, reporter and general handy-man, while type was set by hand by Miss Margaret Smiley, now a linotype operator for The Times; Miss Bess Mundorff, Miss Virginia Horner, Miss Rebecca Drum and Murray Smiley.

Mr. Buvinger said he first saw that circulation was slipping and that it was necessary to build up that end of the newspaper if it was to be a success.

Hard-pressed for funds to meet the weekly payroll, Mr. Buvinger said he traveled the rural routes out of Gettysburg sometimes on foot and other times on a bicycle, to get subscriptions. "It was an uphill struggle," the former newspaper owner reminisced, "but once we got people educated to a daily, it was not hard to keep them on our lists."

Starts A Weekly
Later, Mr. Buvinger purchased the defunct semi-weekly Gettysburg News from R. E. Wible, Esq., and moved the plant from Chambersburg street to the News plant which stood on Carlisle street on the site of Gilliland's apartments. In making the change, Mr. Buvinger sold the equipment of The Gettysburg Times to a resident of Tennessee for $490, less two fonts of type.

Still later, Mr. Buvinger started publication of the Adams County News, a weekly, which he sold to persons whom he could not interest in a daily. The News made its appearance in the fall of 1908.

Early in 1909, The Gettysburg Times was moved from Carlisle street to quarters in the Eckert building in the northwest corner of center square.

County Competition
Mr. Buvinger's only competition at that time was the Fairfield Herald and the Biglerville Headlight, weekly newspapers, published at Fairfield; the Star and Sentinel and the Gettysburg Compiler.

A fire wiped out the plant of the Fairfield Herald and the Biglerville Headlight, and Mr. Buvinger purchased the subscription lists of both papers and began serving them the Gettysburg Times.

During Mr. Buvinger's ownership of The Times Philip R. Bickle started to work for the newspaper in the role of editor.

In the fall of 1909, Mr. Buvinger sold The Gettysburg Times to the late W. Levere Hafer for $9,000, the consideration including $6,000 in cash and a $3,000 automobile.

When The Times was sold to Mr. Hafer, its circulation had mounted (Continued on Page Two)

May Naturalize Alien Veterans Up To February 23

Alien veterans of the World war, residing in Adams county, who desire to become naturalized under an act of congress, approved May 25, 1932, are urged to take immediate steps by S. L. Allison, prothonotary. The act becomes inoperative after May 25, and February 23 is the last day to file applications.

Mr. Allison will give alien veterans all information necessary in filing their naturalization applications.

CWA PROJECTS PROGRESSING

Emmitsburg Engages 35
More Men To Rush
Civic Work.

With the addition of 35 more men employed on the CWA projects at Emmitsburg, 75 workers will be engaged this week in digging ditches and laying tile on the town's sewage disposal system, leveling firemen's field, and drainage work on the high school grounds.

Work on the sewage line, held up for four weeks awaiting arrival of tile, will get in full swing with the 35 new men on this project, if weather conditions are favorable. The sewage line follows a course parallel with and adjacent to the eastern boundary fence on Firemen's field and the alley south of East Main street where the men are now engaged. No ground has yet been broken on the west end of Main street.

Thirty men are excavating and filling the athletic grounds known as Firemen's field to make the playground level. Ten men have been digging the ditch to drain the water from the lowland to the south side of the high school plot. The drain empties into the small run which flows on the north side of the grounds.

Holmes D. Baker, of Frederick chairman of the Frederick county welfare board, and James Cambill, Frederick, an official of the board, made an inspection tour of the CWA projects and reported well pleased with the progress of the work.

Woman Observes 77th Anniversary

Mrs. John C. Peppie, who celebrated her seventy-seventh birthday anniversary, Saturday, was entertained by her children at her home near Orrtanna at a turkey dinner. Four generations were present.

Those attending were: Mrs. Elizabeth Favorite, of Hagerstown, a sister of Mrs. Peppie; Harry Peppie, of Waynesboro; Charles Peppie, of Table Rock; James F. Peppie, of Gettysburg; Mark Peppie and son, Justice, of Cashtown; Mr. and Mrs. John R. Peppie and children, Robert, Raymond, Clarence, Guy, Glenn, Pauline, Dorothy and Donald, of Smithsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ogden and children, Romaine, Richard, of Bendersville; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hart, Mrs. Thomas Bond and children, Thomas and Joan, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shirley, all of Hagerstown, and Miss Minnie Bumbaugh, of Waynesboro.

James C. Cole Is Improving

James C. Cole, The Narrows, chairman of the Adams county democratic committee, is recovering from a severe attack of grippe and flu. Mr. Cole has been confined for three weeks and his condition at one time was reported as critical. Complications developed about ten days ago, but Mr. Cole has rallied and is now reported considerably improved.

DOLLAR DAY

Announcement was made on Monday of the forthcoming fifteenth semi-annual Dollar Day by Gettysburg merchants, February 3.

For several years this semi-annual event has attracted county-wide interest because of the exceptional merchandise values offered by the merchants who participate in the event.

Local merchants announce that this week's event will excel any previous sale because they are planning to offer more attractive bargains than it was possible to do for several years.

A special edition of The Gettysburg Times will be published on Thursday in which will appear the official announcement of all those merchants who will take part in Saturday's event.

FOREST UNITS GET HOLIDAY; PARADE TODAY

Special Dinners Are Served C. C. C.

Today.

PLAN PROGRAM THIS AFTERNOON

More than four hundred colored members of Gettysburg's two civilian conservation corps camps here, Camp No. 335 and Camp No. 238, today are enjoying a holiday at the expense of the president of the United States.

Today being President Roosevelt's 52nd birthday anniversary the men of the two local camps were granted a full holiday with special menus for the day.

At Camp No. 1, the men were served a roast turkey dinner this noon. The turkey fare also contained all the "trimmings" and the men thoroughly enjoyed their mid-week festivity. Captain Francis J. Moran is the commandant.

At Camp No. 2, the enrollees were also accorded a full holiday and this evening they will be served a fried chicken dinner with all the trimmings, and the rest of the evening will be one long round of entertainment.

The holiday was accorded the men because of the president's birthday and because it was through the efforts of the chief executive that these two camps, as well as the several hundred others throughout the nation, were made possible.

Parade Today
The men were singing the praises of their "chief executive" today and special programs had been prepared for presentation this afternoon in the two large recreational buildings.

At four o'clock this afternoon members of Camp No. 1 were scheduled to parade through the streets of Gettysburg in commemoration of the president's birthday.

Captain Moran said the men would be driven to the outskirts of town in the army trucks and would march into town, parade through the streets and return to their trucks to be driven back to camp. The drum and bugle corps of the camp, comprising about fifteen pieces, will also be in the procession. It will be the first parade of the C. C. C. unit since its organization here.

PUSH MEMORIAL DAY PLANS HERE

President's Wishes To Be Respected By Sons Of Veterans' Committee.

Plans are moving forward for the elaborate entertainment of President Franklin D. Roosevelt when he comes to Gettysburg to commemorate the 1934 observance of Memorial Day, May 30.

The Sons of Union Veterans' Memorial day committee has been holding several meetings, at which details of the day's festivities were being worked out in order that the entire proceedings be executed without any difficulty.

The committee is anxious to make its plans coincide with arrangements to suit the president's convenience and is not announcing any details of its program until after it has been approved by Mr. Roosevelt.

Most of the arrangements for Memorial Day, however, are still in the formative stage but progress has been reported by the various sub-committees and the general committee is well pleased with the progress so far.

The question of a special souvenir program has been brought up before the committee but definite announcement will not be forthcoming for several weeks.

The committee announced that traffic regulations in town on Memorial Day will be most convenient and considerate, not only from the standpoint of proper regulations for pedestrians but for motorists and the thousands of visitors who are expected here for that occasion.

The president's wishes will be respected in all details.

Dramatic Society Plans Mardi Gras

At a meeting of the dramatic society of St. Euphemia's held Sunday morning in St. Euphemia's hall, Emmitsburg, Miss Lillian Boyle was chosen president for the year 1934. Miss Genevieve Elder and Austin Stoner were named to the offices of secretary and treasurer, respectively.

A Mardi Gras function is being planned by the guild to be held on February 13 and a committee of four, Robert Pampel, chairman; Bernard Boyle, and Misses Doris Elder and Margaret Rosebush, was selected to take charge of the arrangements. The affair will be held in St. Euphemia's hall.

CORN-HOG PLAN ANNOUNCED BY CO. FARM AGENT

M. T. Hartman Hopes To Interest Farmers In Reductions.

PLAN TO RAISE PRICES OF BOTH

Adams county has been designated as one of twenty-one counties in the state with sufficient production to be interested in the corn-hog plan of the United States department of agriculture, M. T. Hartman, farm agent, announced today.

The purpose of the corn-hog plan is to restore a balance between production and actual demand for corn and hogs that will raise the prices of these commodities to their pre-war levels in relation to the prices of things farmers buy. Altogether the maximum reduction payments during the next 15 months under this plan amount to approximately $350,000,000.

In order that Adams county farmers may learn about the corn-hog plan, Mr. Hartman suggests that any farmer interested write, phone or call at the office in the court house.

Plans Meetings
Educational meetings will be held in various communities throughout the county depending upon the interest that is shown in the corn-hog plan.

A farmers' organization will be set up to conduct the corn-hog program similar to the county wheat production control association.

Plan Is Outlined
The producer agrees to reduce in 1934 the number of litters farrowed on the farm 25 per cent below the annual average number of litters farrowed in the two-year base period, December 1, 1931, to December 1, 1933, and to reduce the number of hogs produced for market from 1934 litters 25 per cent below the annual average number of hogs produced for market from litters farrowed during the past two-year period. The producer agrees not to increase the number of feeder pigs bought over the average number of feeder pigs bought during the two-year base period.

Would Cut Acreage
The producer agrees to reduce the corn acreage on the farm he will operate in 1934 not less than 20 per cent below the average acreage planted in 1932 and 1933 or by any amount in excess of 20 per cent, but the corn reduction payment shall be made only on a number of acres not in excess of 30 per cent of the two-year average. With a reduction in corn acreage the producer agrees not to increase in 1934 other basic crops grown on the farm over that acreage grown in 1932 or 1933, whichever is higher.

$5 A Head For Hogs
The secretary of agriculture agrees that the producer shall receive a reduction payment at the rate of 30 cents per bushel on the estimated yield of corn per acre of the contracted acreage. A hog reduction of $5 per head on 15 per cent of the average number of hogs marketed or to be marketed from litters farrowed by the producers' sows in the past two-year base period. A part of the reduction payment shall be made as soon as possible after acceptance of the (Continued on Page Two)

JUDGE UPSETS LOWER COURT'S GAME VERDICT

Former Justice Of The Peace Gibson Directed To Return
$31 Fine.

BUSHMAN MUST RETURN 'COONS

Judge Donald P. McPherson reversed the findings of former Justice of the Peace Neil W. Gibson in the case of Laverne Starnor, of Hamilton township, who was arrested last March on a charge of taking raccoons illegally.

Gibson ordered Starnor to pay a fine and costs amounting to $31 and ordered him to turn over to Leo Bushman, Adams county game protector, three raccoons which he was alleged to have taken illegally.

After the preliminary hearing, Starnor took an appeal. The court discredited the appeal and directed Starnor to pay the fine and costs or go to jail.

Fine Is Paid
Starnor was arrested by Mr. Bushman and committed to jail, but was discharged when Starnor's father paid the fine and costs to Gibson.

Since the case was heard originally, one of the three raccoons taken by Mr. Bushman from Starnor escaped. The court directed, Monday, that the game protector return the three raccoons to Starnor. Mr. Bushman has replaced the raccoon which escaped with another. He said he plans to turn back the raccoons to Starnor today, and that Starnor will have to release them at once.

The court ordered Gibson to return the $31 fine and costs.

A court-directed verdict in favor of the plaintiff, the RKO distributing company, in the sum of $523.53, was returned in court, Monday afternoon, against Mrs. A. C. Myers, of Littlestown.

The verdict was directed in favor of the plaintiff after Judge McPherson and the jury heard the plaintiff's side of the case.

Trial of the action brought to an abrupt close the January term of court.

More than four hundred colored members of Gettysburg's two civilian conservation corps camps here, Camp No. 385 and Camp No. 238, today are enjoying a holiday at the expense of the president of the United States.

Today being President Roosevelt's 52nd birthday anniversary the men of the two local camps were granted a full holiday with special menus for the day.

At Camp No. 1, the men were served a roast turkey dinner this noon. The turkey fare also contained all the "trimmings" and the men thoroughly enjoyed their mid-week festivity. Captain Francis J. Moran is the commandant.

At Camp No. 2, the enrollees were also accorded a full holiday and this evening they will be served a fried chicken dinner with all the trimmings, and the rest of the evening will be one long round of entertainment.

The holiday was accorded the men because of the president's birthday and because it was through the efforts of the chief executive that these two camps, as well as the several hundred others throughout the nation, were made possible.

Parade Today
The men were singing the praises of their "chief executive" today and special programs had been prepared for presentation this afternoon in the two large recreational buildings.

At four o'clock this afternoon members of Camp No. 1 were scheduled to parade through the streets of Gettysburg in commemoration of the president's birthday.

Captain Moran said the men would be driven to the outskirts of town in the army trucks and would march into town, parade through the streets and return to their trucks to be driven back to camp. The drum and bugle corps of the camp, comprising about fifteen pieces, will also be in the procession. It will be the first parade of the C. C. C. unit since its organization here.

PUSH MEMORIAL DAY PLANS HERE

President's Wishes To Be Respected By Sons Of Veterans' Committee.

Plans are moving forward for the elaborate entertainment of President Franklin D. Roosevelt when he comes to Gettysburg to commemorate the 1934 observance of Memorial Day, May 30.

The Sons of Union Veterans' Memorial day committee has been holding several meetings, at which details of the day's festivities were being worked out in order that the entire proceedings be executed without any difficulty.

The committee is anxious to make its plans coincide with arrangements to suit the president's convenience and is not announcing any details of its program until after it has been approved by Mr. Roosevelt.

Most of the arrangements for Memorial Day, however, are still in the formative stage but progress has been reported by the various sub-committees and the general committee is well pleased with the progress so far.

The question of a special souvenir program has been brought up before the committee but definite announcement will not be forthcoming for several weeks.

The committee announced that traffic regulations in town on Memorial Day will be most convenient and considerate, not only from the standpoint of proper regulations for pedestrians but for motorists and the thousands of visitors who are expected here for that occasion.

The president's wishes will be respected in all details.

CORN-HOG PLAN ANNOUNCED BY CO. FARM AGENT

M. T. Hartman Hopes To Interest Farmers In Reductions.

PLAN TO RAISE PRICES OF BOTH

Adams county has been designated as one of twenty-one counties in the state with sufficient production to be interested in the corn-hog plan of the United States department of agriculture, M. T. Hartman, farm agent, announced today.

The purpose of the corn-hog plan is to restore a balance between production and actual demand for corn and hogs that will raise the prices of these commodities to their pre-war levels in relation to the prices of things farmers buy. Altogether the maximum reduction payments during the next 15 months under this plan amount to approximately $350,000,000.

In order that Adams county farmers may learn about the corn-hog plan, Mr. Hartman suggests that any farmer interested write, phone or call at the office in the court house.

Plans Meetings
Educational meetings will be held in various communities throughout the county depending upon the interest that is shown in the corn-hog plan.

A farmers' organization will be set up to conduct the corn-hog program similar to the county wheat production control association.

Any farmer who raises three or more litters of pigs a year and grows ten or more acres of corn is eligible to enter into a contract with the secretary of agriculture.

Plan Is Outlined
The producer agrees to reduce in 1934 the number of litters farrowed on the farm 25 per cent below the annual average number of litters farrowed in the two-year base period, December 1, 1931, to December 1, 1933, and to reduce the number of hogs produced for market from 1934 litters 25 per cent below the annual average number of hogs produced for market from litters farrowed during the past two-year period. The producer agrees not to increase the number of feeder pigs bought over the average number of feeder pigs bought during the two-year base period.

Would Cut Acreage
The producer agrees to reduce the corn acreage on the farm he will operate in 1934 not less than 20 per cent below the average acreage planted in 1932 and 1933 or by any amount in excess of 20 per cent, but the corn reduction payment shall be made only on a number of acres not in excess of 30 per cent of the two-year average. With a reduction in corn acreage the producer agrees not to increase in 1934 other basic crops grown on the farm over that acreage grown in 1932 or 1933, whichever is higher.

$5 A Head For Hogs
The secretary of agriculture agrees that the producer shall receive a reduction payment at the rate of 30 cents per bushel on the estimated yield of corn per acre of the contracted acreage. A hog reduction of $5 per head on 75 per cent of the average number of hogs marketed or to be marketed from litters farrowed by the producers' sows in the past two-year base period. A part of the reduction payment shall be made as soon as possible after acceptance of the (Continued on Page Two)

JUDGE UPSETS LOWER COURT'S GAME VERDICT

Former Justice Of The Peace Gibson Directed To Return $31 Fine.

BUSHMAN MUST RETURN 'COONS

Judge Donald P. McPherson reversed the findings of former Justice of the Peace Neil W. Gibson in the case of Laverne Starnier, of Hamilton township, who was arrested last March on a charge of taking raccoons illegally.

Gibson ordered Starnier to pay a fine and costs amounting to $31 and ordered him to turn over to Leo Bushman, Adams county game protector, three raccoons which he was alleged to have taken illegally.

After the preliminary hearing, Starnier took an appeal. The court dismissed the appeal and directed Starnier to pay the fine and costs or go to jail.

Fine Is Paid
Starnier was arrested by Mr. Bushman and committed to jail, but was discharged when Starnier's father paid the fine and costs to Gibson.

Since the case was heard originally, one of the three raccoons taken by Mr. Bushman from Starnier escaped. The court directed, Monday, that the game protector return the three raccoons to Starnier. Mr. Bushman has replaced the raccoon which escaped with another. He said he plans to turn back the raccoons to Starnier today, and that Starnier will have to release them at once.

The court ordered Gibson to return the $31 fine and costs.

A court-directed verdict in favor of the plaintiff, the RKO distributing company, in the sum of $523.53, was returned in court, Monday afternoon, against Mrs. A. C. Myers, of Littlestown.

The verdict was directed in favor of the plaintiff after Judge McPherson and the jury heard the plaintiff's side of the case.

Trial of the action brought to an abrupt close the January term of court.

Insull, whom the United States government twice has sought to extradite, has until February 1 to get out of Greece or be deported. WEATHER FORECAST

Eastern Pennsylvania: Fair with slowly rising temperatures tonight; Wednesday fair and warmer.

FAIR WEATHER RETURNS HERE

Four Degrees Above Zero Is Registered In Town Monday Night.

Yes, sir, it was colder last night than the night before, in fact, four degrees colder.

On Sunday night the recording thermometer at the home of Dr. Henry Stewart, local weather recorder, touched slightly under 8 degrees above zero, while on Monday night the mercury sank to 4 degrees above zero.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon, the thermometer registered 16 degrees above zero, and the weather man predicted slowly rising temperatures for tonight and Wednesday, which is better than just good news.

(By the A. P.)

Chills ran down the continent's spine today, and freezing weather prevailed as far south as the gulf coast and northern Florida.

Although temperatures rose in the northwest, much of the rest of the country still shivered. Chicago suffered in two below zero weather this morning, while New York awoke to find another bitter cold day, with the mercury at six above.

Other spots were far colder. Owl's Head, New York, reported 30 below and Northfield, Vermont, 22 below.

More moderate temperatures were predicted by nightfall at the latest for part of the central states, and for the east Wednesday.

Negro Lynched By Tampa Mob

Tampa, Florida, Jan. 30 (AP)—A band of men early today lynched Robert Johnson, negro, held for investigation for an alleged attack on a white woman.

Deputy Constable T. M. Graves reported he was kidnapped, beaten and then freed when the negro, whom he was transferring from the city jail, was shot down.

The shooting took place in an isolated section 15 miles from Tampa, a short time after Graves took the negro from the jail.

Police reported they released Johnson to Graves when the Deputy Constable appeared with warrants charging Johnson with petty larceny.

Johnson was arrested Sunday. Police said he was partially identified as the negro who attacked a woman.

Quebec Storm Ties-Up Trains

Three Rivers, Quebec, Jan. 30 (AP)—One of the worst storms in many years swept over Quebec's Gaspe peninsula today and imprisoned two crack express trains in mountainous snowdrifts.

Improve Forest Telephone Service

By the end of 1933, 100 additional miles of telephone line will be newly constructed or rebuilt in the Pennsylvania state forests. About half of this mileage was necessitated by providing emergency forest workers' camps with telephone communication. Some 40 miles represent replacements of existing telephone lines which had been in operation for more than a decade and were worn out.

The total mileage of telephone line owned and maintained by the department of forests and waters is about 1,000 miles. The largest mileage is in the Tiadaghton state forest in Lycoming county and in the Delaware state forest in Pike and Monroe counties.

Queen Of England Rescued In Unknown Subject's Car

Cambridge, England, Jan. 30 (AP).—Over roads which once shook to the tramp of noble hoofs of Sir Launcelot's charger rode Percy Titmous, Esq., Monday. His mount, however, was no prancing stallion; it was an automobile "in the low-price class."

Nor did Mr. Titmous wear the armored trappings of chivalry; instead, as becomes one who works in a brewery, he wore an everyday business suit.

Thus unromantically arrayed he spurred on, one might say, toward Ely from Cambridge. And beside the historic road, in the best manner of the round-table legends, he found a queen in distress.

He did not know it was a queen, however. All he saw was a large automobile whose chauffeur was unable to make a budge.

"I say," said Mr. Titmous, with nonchalance, "having trouble?"

Then he looked again and lost his nonchalance; the passenger in the large car was Queen Mary.

Mr. Titmous explained later that he thought only he "might be able to lend a hand," and added:

"I asked if I could take a message or take them anywhere and the queen decided to come to Cambridge."

Now Mr. Titmous had not intended to go to Cambridge—in fact, he was driving away from there at the time, but he gallantly wheeled his car about, assisted her majesty and a lady-in-waiting to enter, and returned to the university town.

Queen Mary, who was out on a shopping tour in quest of antiques, was expected in Cambridge and a crowd had gathered in front of the antique shop where she was to do her buying.

A policeman was on duty. When the little Titmous sedan drew up in the parking place he imperiously waved it away.

Then he, too, looked again and changed his wave to a salute.

"Well," said the knight of the old Cambridge road, "her majesty was very grateful and expressed her thanks personally. She was intensely amused at the little adventure which had befallen her and her lady-in-waiting."

It was all Sir Launcelot—horse, armor and all—could have done.

Bodies Of 4 Nuns Taken From Canal

Watertown, N. Y., Jan. 30 (AP).—The bodies of four nuns and the driver of the automobile that carried all to their death Sunday night in the freezing waters of the Power canal and Black river, seven miles from here, were recovered by divers Monday.

The dead were Sister Gabriel, Mary Giffin, of Carthage, principal of the Augustinian academy at Carthage; Sister Alphonsus, Margaret Kenney, of Philadelphia; Sister Angelo, Emma Walsh, of Lowell; Sister Christina, Saide Halligos, of Scranton, and Martha O'Keefe, of Carthage.

The bodies were removed from the car 500 feet from the spot where it crashed through a guard rail and rolled down an embankment into twenty feet of water. Working at 12 below zero, George Fisher Ogdenburg, diver, went down into the canal nine times.

Polo Team Made Up Of Brothers

Manila, P. I. (AP)—Four brothers, the Elizaldes, comprise the Manila Polo club team this winter and are confident of winning the Far Eastern championship to be battled for next spring at the close of the current Philippine season.

The Elizaldes, all members of a wealthy Spanish family, are playing together for the first time and with a total official handicap of 12 goals believe they are the highest rated such family group.

Other family fours are the Firestones at Miami, Florida, and the Baldwins at Honolulu.

Three of the brothers—Michael, Angel and Juan—each have four-goal handicaps by the United States Polo association. The other, Manolo, is playing his first season and has no rating.

They won their first three games from army fours with little difficulty, the third against a quartet that included Major General Frank Parker, who had arrived only the day before from Chicago to take command of the Philippine department.

1184 New Planes For Navy, Junior Air Corps Pushed

Washington, Jan. 30 (AP)—More planes for the navy and a method of training youthful pilots for the nation's air force were put forward in the house Monday as separate phases of the sudden drive to build up the country's defensive works.

The house naval committee took the first step toward doubling the navy's number of fighting planes, at the same time that Speaker Rainey was telling an anti-war delegation that he hoped there would be no war this spring between Russia and Japan, but that both countries were building up their armaments.

Chairman McSwain, of the house military committee, meanwhile introduced a bill to authorize creation of a junior air corps reserve as a civilian component of the army. In it, all physically sound youths between 18 and 21 could obtain army training to qualify them as pilots.

Speaker Rainey, who has visited Russia and advocated recognition of the Soviet for years, said he thought the new relations between the United States and that country "contributed more to world peace than any other development in recent years."

He told the anti-war delegation

Fire Drill Saves 46 School Kiddies

Lancaster, Jan. 30 — Forty-six boys and girls marched calmly to safety when fire broke out in the Waterloo grade school in Salisbury township Monday. Fanned by a gale, the fire spread quickly and consumed the one-room school building.

It was the second school fire within a week in Lancaster county. Last week fire destroyed the Conroy township high school, at Bainbridge.

The fire Monday flamed around the chimney after an unusually hot fire had been kindled in the stove because of the cold weather.

Miss Leila Overholser, the teacher, gave the usual fire drill commands when the fire was discovered. Pupils stepped quickly into the aisles at her command and marched from the building.

The Salisbury township fire company was called, but firemen were unable to save the structure.

George Hostetter, township fire chief, estimated the damage at between $1200 and $1500.

After leaving Gettysburg, Mr. Buvinger spent a year as manager of the New York office of the De Long hook and eye company, but the smell of printers' ink was still poignant and he began looking around for another newspaper. He found one in Mississippi where he remained for eight years.

At present, Mr. Buvinger is president of a toll bridge company at Ocean City, New Jersey, where he resides.

He stopped over night in Gettysburg on his way to Ocean City from Cincinnati, where he attended a convention, and was the guest at dinner at Hotel Gettysburg of the news staff of The Times. While here, he visited Philip R. Bickle, his editor while in Gettysburg, and in the home of Charles H. Wilson, where he lived while he published The Times, and other local friends and acquaintances.

BEGIN SELECTION OF "HIGHBALL MURDER" JURY

Greenwood, Miss., Jan. 30 (AP)—Smilingly gowned, completely at ease, 33-year-old Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, specialist in children's diseases, Monday sat unmoved in a crowded court room as prospective jurors were called by the state in her trial on a charge of murdering her friend and professional associate, Dr. John Preston Kennedy.

Doctor Dean listened attentively, smiling occasionally at sallies between the presiding judge and veniremen.

The state will attempt to prove that Doctor Kennedy, prominent Greenwood surgeon, died last August after drinking a poisoned whiskey highball handed him by Doctor Dean during a midnight visit to the handsome young woman physician's apartment.

6,200 men, and an increase in personnel for the whole army; as well as funds to make up deficiencies in mechanization, motorization, anti-aircraft artillery and other weapons.

At present the United States army has 1,700 airplanes of all types, including those assigned the national guard and organized reserves, and those ordered recently. Air officers, however, consider that only 1,300 planes are thoroughly serviceable and suitable for actual defense purposes.

The air corps, in the 1935, budget, has asked for $21,450,253, of which $8,264,317 has been earmarked for immediate purchase of new planes and equipment, and an additional $3,000,000 contract authorization. These funds (based on 1933 prices) would provide for 348 planes of all types, but, because of higher wages and increased prices of materials, the number will be reduced.

Receive Allotment
The Public Works administration has allotted the air corps $7,500,000 for the purchase of 100 bombardment, pursuit and attack planes.

By law the army is authorized 1,800 serviceable airplanes, including 152 for the national guard. Explaining the need for construction of 1,000 new planes to bring the army air force to its peak of effectiveness, the war department announcement said:

"Advances in aircraft engineering sciences, coupled with broader conception of employment, and possible performance of aviation in national defense, have naturally led to varied opinions relative to doctrines, strength distribution, organization and utilization of air forces. The recent organization of army tactical units into four combat armies has had certain definite influences on the army air corps. The purpose of the general staff's study and conclusions has been to harmonize and crystallize the latest views on these aviation subjects in order to insure up-to-date doctrines and organization, and determine desirable strength.

Unify Air Force
"Among the decisions reached was a definite conclusion to build up in the air corps a homogeneous air unit known as G. H. Q. air force, comprising all military elements of aviation and adequate to meet effectively the requirements of all military air and land operations. Three operations may be in

Prompt action by farmers is suggested by County Agent Hartman, so that plans can be made to conduct meetings and get the corn-hog program organized in Adams county.

BLOND GODDESS

By Herbert Jensen

SYNOPSIS Don Raoul Ortega has taken Frank Grahame to his hiding place on the coast of Yucatan, and is explaining his "racket," which is a gun running and another "racket." Frank does not care, he is interested in trying to find his friend Bill Langston, the aviator, who is supposed to have crashed some months before in the neighborhood, and in forgetting Janice Kent, the movie star, who may be coming to Mexico to make a picture, but who certainly rejected Frank's proposal of marriage.

Chapter 19
NIGHT ATTACK

"What cargo is that?" asked Grahame, idly, still pondering on the strangeness of this subofficial transaction.

"Cocaine," said Ortega. "It is very profitable. From Progreso it is taken to the United States."

They were seated at the table smoking over the remnants of their meal. Grahame threw his cigarette stub away.

"I am not interested in dope running," he said. "But I would like to investigate the country back of here. You need not be concerned," he continued, half contemptuously as he saw Ortega's face darken. "You'll tangle yourself up sooner or later. No need for me to interfere."

Ortega rose and stood facing Grahame. Through the open door came the sounds of his two companions as they busied themselves stacking the cases in an adjoining shack.

"You will leave with me in the morning," said Ortega distinctly. His hands hung loosely at his sides. Grahame remained seated, but hitched his chair around so that his feet were clear of the table.

"I stay here."

"As you will." The Mexican's hand flashed to his holster. Grahame lashed forward with his leg. Ortega cried out in pain as the toe of the heavy boot snapped against his wrist. His gun dropped to the floor and Grahame covered it with his foot.

"Next time," said Grahame. "You'll be really sorry."

He picked up the heavy revolver and tossed it on the table. Ortega glowered at him, his teeth bared in a half snarl. He held his wrist tightly with his other hand.

Grahame took up the revolver from the table and slipped it into his pocket. He strode to the door and turned. "I'm sleeping with your cargo tonight," he smiled a little grimly. "In the event I don't see you in the morning, adios."

He gathered his dunnage at the launch and took it to the building where the arms were stacked. He unrolled his hammock and lashed it in place. He lay down fully dressed with his automatic ready beneath his hand and his flashlight in the other.

He could see a light glowing through the thatch from the other building, and heard the voices of the other three as a low mumble. Later he heard them moving about outside.

The engine of the launch coughed and settled to a steady throbbing. Evidently they were not waiting for the morning's light to leave by. His thought was confirmed when he heard the slow grind of the reverse gear, and the quick chug of the launch under way.

The beat of the engine lessened, then grew fainter as distance swallowed its sound. Grahame relaxed and closed his eyes. He dozed fitfully, however, his mind restless and wary. Finally he slept.

Dawn was faintly tinging the ragged tops of the palm-trees back of the clearing when a dark figure drifted across the open space and disappeared into the shack that housed the American. Grahame lay in his hammock breathing evenly.

The figure approached the hammock and leaned over the recumbent man. There was a cry and a scuffle and Grahame's long arms shot out and gripped the stranger by the throat and wrist.

Still holding to the wrist, he snapped on his flashlight.

"It is I—Juan!" The whisper was hoarse and agitated. "Turn out your light, for the love of God!"

Grahame snapped the switch and dropped the light to the hammock. His free hand traveled over Juan. The boy's sheath knife was in its case.

"What is it?" he asked. He released the wrist he held.

"Ortega and Pedro. They stopped the launch at the mouth of the lagoon and are coming back over the trail to kill you. Don Raoul says you are an American spy. They left me at the launch, but I know a shorter way, and ran here to warn you."

"Why didn't you enter boldly?"

"They may have gotten here before me, and would have killed me, too," replied the boy simply. Frank suppressed a chuckle.

Two figures loomed in the square made by the doorway, but about five yards distant from it.

Grahame threw himself from the hammock as two guns spat flame. He heard the thud of the bullets hitting the cases, then his own gun began to jump in his hand.

Above the crashes he heard one of the men cry out, then both melted from his gun sights. He jumped to the doorway. The two were fleeing toward the clearing's edge. He sighted on the back of the larger of the fleeing men, then lowered his gun.

He shrugged his shoulders and turned to the boy standing beside him.

"How are you, Juan?" he asked, throwing an arm over the lad's shoulders.

"I am all right." He drew a deep breath. "But very frightened, senior." Frank grinned. "Well, so was I. But I suspect not half so much as our two friends."

He looked at the boy appraisingly, who gazed back at him with candid eyes. Despite the young fellow's assurance that he had been afraid, there was no trace of timidity in that straightforward look.

Frank said, "How old are you, Juan?"

"Sixteen, senior."

"Do you know the jungle back there?" He waved his arm in a direction away from the coast. "Have you ever been in there?"

"A little, senior. To shoot deer, or to trap the wild turkey."

"Would you go in there with me—even if it will take weeks to go only a few miles?"

Juan said thoughtfully: "It is very dangerous, senior. I would advise you not to go."

Vaguely Frank was disappointed. He said heartily: "Then you would rather not go with me. But that is all right. Here . . . I will give you some money, muchacho, for what you did for me this night, and you can head back toward the coast when you wish."

Again Juan gave him that level look.

Scientists Say
All Will Be Crazy

Chicago. (AP)—Every body will be insane by 2139 A.D. if the present increase in insanity is maintained, the Executives club was told by David Seabury, New York psychiatrist.

He asserted that statisticians had reached the conclusion that there has been a 30 per cent increase in insanity in the last ten years. He described worry as one of the first steps toward insanity.

"Beware," he said, "of the worry monster. Half of the worries of the world are started by people of this sort. Their advice should never be heeded."

Among the identifications for the "worry monster," the speaker gave these:

A gossip, critic or "chiseler." Timid, despondent, parasitical persons.

The arrogant, fanatical, obstinate melancholy and self-piteous. Jealous, envious and angry persons.

The painfully good. Those who are always looking on the gloomy side.

WINGS TUMBLE
PASSONS, 40-37

Local Court Aces Down Philadelphia For Second Time This Season.

In one of the closest and hardest fought games staged on the Hotel Gettysburg annex court this season, the Gettysburg Fleet-Wings turned back the Philadelphia Passons for the second time this season Monday night, 40-37.

The Passons came here determined to revenge their first setback at the hands of the locals but were forced into submission by a spirited last period rally by the Wings.

Referee Eddie Gullan was given plenty of work and he awarded no less than fifty-five free throws. Hugh Hoke was a target of many of the Passon fouls and he caged eleven of eighteen charity tosses.

The outcome of the game was in doubt until the final whistle had blown. Except for one time, the lead was never more than four points and continually see-sawed.

The Wings led throughout the entire first period, a goal by Chancoski in the last minute of play giving the locals a 16-10 lead at the end of the period.

A spirited and desperate rally by the Passons in the second period sent the Philadelphia Phantoms into the lead. Reilly's goal was the only Wing doubleheader of the period but foul tossing by Hoke and H. Bream kept Gettysburg in the running.

The entire Passon club figured in the scoring in this round which found the visitors in the lead, 30-37, at the end of the period.

The final session was desperately waged with both clubs playing careful games. Several times the score was deadlocked. With less than a minute to go and the Wings leading, 38-37, Zahn slipped away from the tight Jasson defense to loop a goal and sew up the contest.

The Sweetland quintet won its sixth straight of the season by downing York Springs in a county league game, 37-21.

Thursday night the Wings will battle the Merich Reds, of Washington, Washington, D. C., and Ardenstville will play York Springs in a preliminary game.

Scientists Says

All Will Be Crazy

Chicago, (AP)—Everybody will be insane by 2139 A. D. if the present increase in insanity is maintained, the Executives Club was told by David Seabury, New York psychologist.

He asserted that statisticians had reached the conclusion that there has been a 30 per cent increase in insanity in the last ten years. He described worry as one of the first steps toward insanity.

"Beware," he said, "of the worry monger. Half of the worries of the world are started by people of this sort. Their advice should never be heeded."

Among the identifications for the "worry monger," the speaker gave these: A gossip, critic or "chiseler." Timid, despondent, parasitical persons.

The arrogant, fanatical, obstinate melancholy and self-piteous. Jealous, envious and angry persons.

The painfully good.

Those who are always looking on the gloomy side.

WINGS TUMBLE PASSONS, 40-37

Local Court Aces Down Philadelphia For Second Time This Season.

In one of the closest and hardest fought games staged on the Hotel Gettysburg annex court this season, the Gettysburg Fleet-Wings turned back the Philadelphia Passons for the second time this season, Monday night, 40-37.

The Passons came here determined to revenge their first setback at the hands of the locals but were forced into submission by a spirited last period rally by the Wings.

Referee Eddie Gulian was given plenty of work and he awarded no less than fifty-five free throws. Hugh Hoke was a target of many of the Passon fouls and he caged eleven of eighteen charity tosses.

The outcome of the game was in doubt until the final whistle had blown. Except for one time, the lead was never more than four points and continually see-sawed.

The Wings led throughout the entire first period, a goal by Chankowski in the last minute of play giving the locals a 16-10 lead at the end of the period.

A spirited and desperate rally by the Passons in the second period sent the Philadelphia into the lead. Reilly's goal was the only Wing doubleheader of the period but foul tossing by Hoke and H. Bream kept Gettysburg in the running.

The entire Passon club figured in the scoring in this round which found the visitors in the lead, 30-37, at the end of the period.

The final session was desperately waged with both clubs playing careful games. Several times the score was deadlocked. With less than a minute to go and the Wings leading, 38-37, Zahn slipped away from the tight Jasson defense to loop a goal and sew up the contest.

The Sweetland quintet won its sixth straight of the season by downing York Springs in a county league game, 37-21.

Thursday night the Wings will battle the Heurich Reds, of Washington, D. C., and Ardentville will play York Springs in a preliminary game.

COMMUNICATION

Ortanna, Pa.,

January 27, 1934.

To the Editor,
The Gettysburg Times.

Being a resident of Franklin township, Adams county, and seeing in your paper the annual supervisors reports for 1933, published on consecutive days for Menallen and Franklin townships, it just occurred to me to analyze and compare these reports.

Not knowing the area or population of other township, but knowing that Franklin covers more territory, while believing Menallen would lead in reality valuation, a comparison shows Franklin has the better collector as he collected $1836.84 more in 1933 and $533.52 more back tax than Menallen. Yet the county commissioners only gave big old Franklin township $360, or $285 less than they gave Menallen, and the state forestry only gave Franklin $22.56, and Menallen $77.68. So they must like Menallen's apples more than Franklin's chestnuts.

Repairs to earth roads. Menallen spent $1766.15 while Franklin, with far greater earth road mileage, spent only $653.95, a difference of $1112.20. So it is obvious that the supervisors want everybody to live along the pike so they won't have to repair dirt roads as it wears out their tools.

Permanent improvements. Menallen spent $4100.90, Franklin $1237.72, a difference of $2863.18 favor Menallen's roads.

Tools and machinery. Menallen $168.06, Franklin, $42.60. Either Menallen is extravagant or else they worked with their tools. Road masters wage, Menallen, $829.36, Franklin, $766.95. Then they spent $12 more than we did removing snow. That will help. As to fees, it would be nicer to be secretary-treasurer or collector in Menallen as they get more money for their services while auditing got the break in Franklin.

Supervisors convention and meetings. Menallen, $181, Franklin, $44.68 but Menallen shows no rent item for meeting place separately so maybe they all chipped in and included that.

Insurance. Notice to all insurance agents, Franklin is a better field to work as they paid $45.57 more and got no refund. Also minor expense items, Franklin $89.42 ahead. All of which in the final analysis leads us to wonder how we are going to get "out of the red" in Franklin and will ever be able to show as pretty a balance sheet as Menallen township has?

Could not be boost that value of road machinery item enough to make us break even at least? Just $316.62 would do it. Or maybe we could get the banks to give us that much credit on the old steam roller, crusher and scrapers. Worth trying, anyhow.

SELAH.

It does hurt though to have paid taxes for these many years and then have Menallen township show us as clean a report as that.

Sunday Sports Got Heavy Vote

The total vote cast in sixty-four of the sixty-seven counties of the commonwealth on the question of playing baseball and football on Sunday, shows a sentiment of more than two to one in favor of liberalizing the Sabbath and thereby modifying the so-called "old blue" law that has been in force in Pennsylvania since 1794.

The total vote for the sixty-four counties reporting, as compiled in the election bureau of the department of state shows that 2,278,772 votes were cast, of which 1,578,281 favored games on Sunday, and 700,491 were opposed. Owing to a court injunction the question was not submitted in Huntingdon county and no report has been received from Montgomery and Venango.

Of the sixty-four counties included in the compilation forty-one gave majorities for modification and 23 favored the retention of the ancient regulation.

A majority either one way or the other does not decide the question on a county wide basis. The referendum in each instance was to determine the will of the voters in each particular municipality and township. Where favorable to the games, the local authorities must pass an ordinance carrying the law into effect and may impose a license fee for each game. Before any game may be played the required license must be procured and the fee paid. The maximum fees that may be charged are fixed in each instance by the law.

Congratulations 52nd Birthday President

WE arise to the toast, "Your good health, sir, and success to every hope in your heart." We know you'll treasure the gift which every good citizen proffers to you today; honor, love and loyalty; appreciation of your earnest and energetic efforts in your country's welfare and prosperity.

This tribute, however, is not incidental to the day. It has been constantly developing with the fine Americanism that you have exhibited throughout your Administration.

Your birthday provides a fitting occasion for public expression of the high esteem in which you are held and to voice the gratitude of a nation. 1934 has ushered in a new year of promise. May it be a great one.

The Greatest Birthday Party In American History

In more than 2,000 cities in the United States there is to be held today, a Birthday Ball in honor of President Roosevelt, the day of his 52nd birthday.

This idea was originated by a Committee of the President's friends who have organized the movement on a national scale with the purpose of deriving funds therefrom for the Warm Springs (Ga.) Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, a fund which Mr. Roosevelt was instrumental in establishing and of which he is President.

It is a graceful and gratifying compliment to the President that his birthday be dedicated to such a worthy cause. There will be no general solicitation to the fund authorized nor will contributions be accepted in any form other than from the sale of tickets for The Birthday Party from which source a major portion will be transmitted to the Infantile Paralysis Foundation.

To honor President Roosevelt's birthday, the Campus Club of Gettysburg College selected this date for presentation of its play, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," which will be presented in the College Gymnasium this evening under the direction of Dr. Richard A. Arms. While the proceeds are to be given the Women's League of College, a gift of cash therefrom will be sent to President Roosevelt for the benefit of the Warm Springs Foundation.

A reproduction on fine paper of this double page Greeting, as published here, is being sent to President Roosevelt.

You Health

Do you have an uninvited, un-welcomed guest in your home?
Lots of folks have.

He's the common cold.

He doesn't wait for an invitation.

He crowds right in and stays till he gets ready to leave.

Colds are seasonal, being winter

visitors.

And they seem to appear most often where there are the most people gathered together.

But what causes colds?

Alas, man has not yet solved this perplexing problem.

It is undoubtedly an infection,

spread from man to man.

But the organism causing the cold is not known.

Evidence points to its being a filterable virus; that is, it will pass through a filter that will hold back the smallest known bacteria.

There may be several kinds of a cold.

It is possible there is the benign, or mild, type of cold which would

of itself disappear regardless of treatment.

Or there may be a more serious type destined to establish focal infections, particularly in the upper respiratory tract—often in the sinuuses.

And there may be a third type which at its onset appears no different from the others, but is in fact the early state of a systemic infection such as influenza or pneumonia.

On the other hand, it is likewise possible that the course of an acute cold depends entirely upon the host; that is the victim's immunity to infection, the adaptability of his organism, the degree of fatigue at the time of onset, and his constitutional and hereditary tendency to disease.

Here are ten rules that will help

discourage the cold:

Get the fresh air habit.

Walk rather than ride.

Avoid sudden chilling of the body. Avoid draughts.

When indoors, avoid room temperature about 68 degrees F.

Maintain humidity and air currents by opening windows frequently.

Avoid swaddling. Ventilate the kitchen.

Keep the feet warm and dry.

Wear rubbers in bad weather.

Avoid burning the upper respiratory membranes with irritants.

Avoid overdrinking, overeating,

constipation and obesity.

Have food of infection removed.

And if, in spite of these simple rules, you get a cold—then stay in bed.

This is for your own protection and for those about you.

TODAY'S TALK

KENNETH GRAHAME

MANY years ago I came across a little book, called "Pagan Papers" by a writer named Kenneth Grahame. I read it with the greatest of joy. A little later, in talking it over with a friend, he asked if I had read this author's other books—notably "The Wind in the Willows"? I replied that I had not and so he gave me a copy to read.Of all books I have ever read about animals I consider this the most gloriously beautiful and inspiring. It was first published as a children's book—but it is far more than that. It is a book for grownups—a book for all humanity, for it breathes the life and love of great thinking and living.As a piece of literature, "The Wind and the Willows" is a masterpiece of writing. Recently an illustrated edition was published, which was its fortieth edition! No wonder it has lived and has been so greatly beloved.Last summer, while I was at my little camp, I read one morning of the death of this author—and immediately I was interested in learning more about his life. Kenneth Grahame was Secretary for the Bank of England up to his retirement on account of ill health, yet for the last 25 years of his life he wrote little or nothing, for he always said that he did not wish to be known as an author, or to have his privacy of life taken away from him, so he retired to a lovely country place where he spent his last days.In all, Kenneth Grahame wrote but five books—and three of these were about or for children, "The Headwoman"—a fantasy, and "Pagan Papers" being the other two. All were small books, but all exquisitely written in the remarkably fine English prose. Unfortunately, all but "The Wind and the Willows" were published in small editions, now difficult to obtain.A life of this author was recently published in England and I have been reading it of late. It tells of a man who was greatly beloved by all who knew him, a man of simple tastes, and generous nature—but shy and disliking all acclaim and with no desire for fame. He loved the open spaces and took great interest in animals. Strange to say his favorite domestic animal was the pig!In his most famous book, however, he concentrated his beautiful prose upon the Mole, the Rat, the Toad, the Badger and the Water Rat.
But each, in the reader's mind, becomes a lovable human being!Kenneth Grahame's only son, for whom he primarily wrote these exquisite animal tales, died in his youth—but now they belong to the world!Claims Congresswomen Have Done Plenty During Terms

By SIGRID ARNE

Washington (AP)—If there is one thing that can make Rep. Mary Norton, of New Jersey, "tired" it is the reputation of the old cynicism.
"Well, look at the women in congress. What have they done?""Sure, we haven't changed the face of the country," says Mrs.
Norton as she looks back over the years since 1925. She entered congress that year with Florence Kahn of California and Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts—and all of them are still there.Convincing the Men
"The critics forget you can't build a tower without laying a foundation," says Mrs. Norton."Just how much good would we have been if we had arrived here determined to use the floor of the house of representatives to 'make a name for ourselves'? Not much. We are representatives of voters, after all, and we could either try to swim upstream or work along with the men and get something done."That's what we've been doing, and I think the men are convinced now that there is a place in congress for women.Achievement of the Gauge There's little guess about that to anyone who has seen Mrs. Norton preside over a committee meeting.
She has a handsome, mature figure, with sparkling eyes, well groomed, deliberate in action and sharp of mind.Like any woman, when Mrs. Norton "has a cake to bake" even if it is the beginning of a new law, she wants to get down to work and have it done. That's the way she looks at her sister representatives.
Not, "How much attention have they attracted?" but "What actually have they done?""People forget," she says, "the many hours we sit down to untangle the individual problems of people in our districts. Men come here upset by tax refund cases.
Weeping families arrive because some member is going to be deported. Widows worry over their pensions. All of it has to be ironed out. Little of it is ever known—but that is true representation of the people."Why, when I see Edith Rogers spend 10 and 12 hours a day listening to troubles, just like a mother, I want to go out and tell people that women contribute plenty to public life."No More "Gallant Gesture"
"Look at Florence Kahn on the house appropriations committee.
Do you think that grand, white-haired woman was named to the committee just as a gallant gesture? Not a bit of it. There is too much work, and she has good sound common sense they can use in approving the nation's huge expenditures.""Don't forget Ruth Bryan Owen, who is a minister to Denmark. She has a woman's sense of human relations, and she is busy making friends for America."Recently Mrs. Norton was in the thick of the fight that resulted in the house adoption of a District of Columbia liquor control plan hailed by "liberals."As chairman of the house district committee, the "mayor of Washington," as Mrs. Norton is known, participated actively in the deliberations that sent the approved bill to the senate, both houses serving as a legislature for the district in matters of this kind.Psychology Did It Only once has she questioned public life as a career. Her brother had died. She was in the midst of a New Jersey campaign. Suddenly she thought, "I belong home with my family." She hurried down to the party leader and announced,
"I'm washed up."That man was a shrewd psychologist. He saw a career ahead for this woman who had devoted so much volunteer time to welfare work. He swung in his chair and said:"So you're yellow," Mrs. Norton gasped.
"You can't say that to me!" she exploded.And he couldn't. She swung into the campaign and the "mayor of Washington" was on her way.

HOW TO AVOID COMMON ERRORSThe period for the filing of income-tax returns covering the calendar year 1933 began January 1 and ends at midnight of March 15. Within this period are filed annually millions of individual income-tax returns, a large proportion of which report income subject to the tax.The latter contain a considerable percentage of errors, which if uncorrected by the audit would result to the disadvantage of the taxpayer. Many are errors of computation easily discovered on the face of the return, which usually is accompanied by a payment of more than the amount of tax due. In other returns it is readily discernible that the taxpayer has failed to take advantage of the personal exemption, credit allowed for dependents, or deductions from gross income to which he is entitled.To avoid these and other errors, the bureau of internal revenue urges careful reading of the instructions on the forms for filing
the returns. Additional information, if needed, may be obtained at the office of a collector of internal revenue, deputy collector, or an internal revenue agent in charge.Also, as a further aid in the preparation of a correct income-tax return for the year 1933, the bureau has prepared a series of short newspaper articles, of which this is the first, advising the salaried man, wage earner, professional and business man—in fact, every class of individual taxpayer—of his requirements and privileges as interpreted under the latest regulations rulings, and decisions relating to the income-tax law.1,000 Men Work On

Read The Bible With Us Daily

If we receive the witness of men, the witness of God is greater: for this is the witness of God which he hath testified to his Son.

He that believeth on the Son of God hath the witness in himself: he that believeth not God hath made him a liar; because he believeth not the record that God gave of his Son.

And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son.

He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life.

These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God.

And this is the confidence that we have in him, if we ask any thing according to his will, he heareth us:

And if we know that he hear us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of him.

If any man see his brother sin a sin which is not unto death, he shall ask, and he shall give him life for them that sin unto death. There is a sin unto death: I do not say that he shall pray for it.

All unrighteousness is sin; and there is a sin not unto death.

We know that whatsoever is born of God sinneth not; but he that is begotten of God keepeth himself, and that wicked one toucheth him not.

And we know that we are of God, and the whole world lieth in wickedness.

And we know that the Son of God is come, and hath given us an understanding, that we may know him that is true, and we are in him that is true even in his Son Jesus Christ. This is the true God, and eternal life.

Little children keep yourselves from idols. Amen.

We learn that some arrests will be made at Arendtsville for the breaking of the estate stones. Whoever it was ought to suffer the penalties of the law.

Mr. Editor: Your briefly noticed the account to Mr. F. Hartzell on the morning of Tuesday, January 9. The particulars may be of interest to some of your readers. On that day Mr. H. started to the woods to cut wood. Before reaching the place his head made felt and in falling struck Mr. H's left eye between it about two inches above the angle and submitted to the bone. Being alone by a determined effort in spite of his broken limbs he carried the eye to the office of Henry Thompson, M.D., where it was taken care of. Dr. Thompson called on H. and saw the eye. He said it was a very bad case, but he would do his best. He called on Mr. H. and saw the eye. He said it was a very bad case, but he would do his best. He called on Mr. H. and saw the eye. Ode to Politics

Your Health

Do you have an uninvited, unwelcome guest in your home? Lots of folks have.

He's the common cold.

He doesn't wait for an invitation.

He crowds right in and stays till he gets ready to leave.

Colds are seasonal, being winter visitors.

And they seem to appear most often where there are the most people gathered together.

But what causes colds?

Alas, man has not yet solved this perplexing problem.

It is undoubtedly an infection, spread from man to man.

But the organism causing the cold is not known.

Evidence points to its being a filterable virus; that is, it will pass through a filter that will hold back the smallest known bacteria.

There may be several kinds of a cold.

It is possible there is the benign, or mild, type of cold which would of itself disappear regardless of treatment.

Or there may be a more serious type destined to establish focal infections, particularly in the upper respiratory tract—often in the sinuses.

And there may be a third type which at its onset appears no different from the others, but is in fact the early state of a systemic infection such as influenza or pneumonia.

On the other hand, it is likewise possible that the course of an acute cold depends entirely upon the host; that is the victim—his immunity to infection, the adaptability of his organism, the degree of fatigue at the time of onset, and his constitutional and hereditary tendency to disease.

Here are ten rules that will help discourage the cold:

Get the fresh air habit.

Walk rather than ride.

Avoid sudden chilling of the body. Avoid draughts.

When indoors, avoid room temperature about 68 degrees F.

Maintain humidity and air currents by opening windows frequently.

Avoid swaddling. Ventilate the skin.

Keep the feet warm and dry. Wear rubbers in bad weather.

Avoid burning the upper respiratory membranes with irritants.

Avoid overdrinking, overeating, constipation and obesity.

Have feet of infection removed.

And if, in spite of these simple rules, you get a cold—then stay in bed.

This is for your own protection and for those about you.

The acute cold is curable.

The neglected cold is an invitation to complications.

And also to that certain dread disease which has a death rate of 50 percent—pneumonia.

50,000 Rabbits Freed In State

Fifty thousand rabbits being released in Pennsylvania thickets will increase to about 1,000,000 by the time the season opens November 1, the game commission says, and will provide food for many birds.

The 50,000 are being imported from Missouri at a cost of about $37,000.

The state already has a large rabbit population, probably reaching into millions, but the commission stocks at the close of each season to prevent rabbit elimination such as faces some states.

The kill in Pennsylvania last season—the month of November—was 3,100,000.

The imported rabbits—the commission says they are hardy animals—obtained in disease-free regions—are allotted to the various counties. Only two pairs are released in a single thicket.

The commission says the rabbit supply in the future will be a problem, because the stock is diminishing rapidly.

Center Of French Pawnshop Swindle

Large "Handsome Alex" Stavisky alleged $40,000,000 swindle, mortally wounded himself when he was trapped by police in an Alpine villa. After his death angry mobs stormed the French chamber of deputies in Paris claiming police had killed Stavisky to shield men in high public office. (Associated Press Photo)

YOUR Income Tax

No. 1

HOW TO AVOID COMMON ERRORS

The period for the filing of income-tax returns covering the calendar year 1933 began January 1 and ends at midnight of March 15. Within this period are filed annually millions of individual income-tax returns, a large proportion of which report income subject to the tax. The latter contain a considerable percentage of errors, which if uncorrected by the audit would result to the disadvantage of the taxpayer. Many are errors of computation easily discovered on the face of the return, which usually is accompanied by a payment of more than the amount of tax due. In other returns it is readily discernible that the taxpayer has failed to take advantage of the personal exemption, credit allowed for dependents, or deductions from gross income to which he is entitled.

To avoid these and other errors, the bureau of internal revenue urges careful reading of the instructions on the forms for filing the returns. Additional information, if needed, may be obtained at the office of a collector of internal revenue, deputy collector, or an internal revenue agent in charge. Also, as a further aid in the preparation of a correct income-tax return for the year 1933, the bureau has prepared a series of short newspaper articles, of which this is the first, advising the salaried man, wage earner, professional and business man—in fact every class of individual taxpayer—of his requirements and privileges as interpreted under the latest regulations, rulings, and decisions relating to the income-tax law.

1,000 Men Work On Game Land Tracts

Almost 1000 men are working on 69 CWA prospects to improve land owned by the game commission. Activities are being carried on in 42 counties, involving 57 tracts of state game lands.

In addition to removing fire hazards and making general improvements at the game reserves projects also are under way at the four state game farms.

Los Angeles police rescued a stray deer from an attack of dogs and took the animal to the police station to be booked as "Jane Doe" under a charge of vagrancy.

early Sunday night. Sixteen feet of fence along the highway was ripped up in the car's wild dash and marks leading to the canal left no doubt that the automobile was in the water.

The four missing nuns, sisters of the Order of St. Joseph, were said to be Sister Gabriel, about 55, principal of Augustinian academy, Carthage; and Sisters Angela, Alphonso and Christina, all of the faculty at the academy.

FOUR NUNS AND DRIVER
MISSING; CAR IN CANAL

Watertown, N. Y., Jan. 30 (AP)—Belief that four nuns and their driver had drowned in a canal at Black river was expressed Sunday night after discovery that an automobile had crashed through a guard rail, rolled down a fifteen-foot embankment and dropped into twenty feet of water.

Efforts of grapplers to locate the automobile had not been successful.

Why
Liquid Laxatives
are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the right dose of a properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It gently helps the average person's bowels back to regularity.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store, ready for use. Member N. R. A.

'Stratosphere Suit' of Aluminum
To Safeguard Spanish Balloonist

Madrid, Jan. 30 (AP)—If and when Lieutenant Colonel Emilio Herrera makes his projected balloon trip into the stratosphere to study possible plane speeds, he will resemble an artist's conception of what the well dressed Martian explorer should wear.

Regarded as an authority on lighter-than-air craft, Lieutenant Colonel Herrera recently announced he would attempt to ascend 78,000 feet, believing that at that height he could find proofs substantiating his theories of the feasibility of air-plant speeds of more than 600 miles an hour.

Instead of using a sealed globe, like his predecessors in stratosphere ventures, he plans to wear a "stratosphere suit" for his own invention, riding in an open basket swung under an enormous balloon.

Will Go Aloft Alone
He intends to supplement his observations of stratospheric conditions with photographs and the suit-and-basket idea will afford him more freedom with a camera, he believes, than would a closed metal ball with windows.

The "stratosphere suit" will protect him, Colonel Herrera says, against the intense cold, and will permit regulation of atmospheric pressure in relation to his body, and at the same time give him full freedom of movement. He plans to go aloft alone.

He sketched for the Associated Press his conception of how he will look. The result suggests a deep-sea diver wearing a gas mask.

The suit will be electrically heated and will carry oxygen tanks with a pressure of 150 atmospheres and potassium tanks for the absorption of exhaled hydrogen. It will be made of steel-reinforced aluminum.

Prepares Four Suits
The colonel said he would wear next to the skin a snug-fitting woollen garment and on top of this a strong rubber suit reaching from ankles to chin. Next will come a suit of flexible material re-enforced with steel threads calculated to withstand the pressure from within as external pressure diminishes.

The balloon basket will, he said, carry a short-wave radio set and several powerful cameras with specially sensitized plates.

Herrera's project has been endorsed by the Spanish National Geographic society, the National Institute of Chemistry, Society of Sciences, Society of Engineers and other organizations, and is being partly underwritten by them.

One Is Killed
In Strike Clash

Pikesville, Ky., Jan. 30 (AP)—One man was killed and another wounded Monday in a clash between deputy sheriffs and striking miners at the Edgewater coal company's mine at Henry Clay.

Fearing further disorder, county officials swore in fifteen members of the local national guard company as special deputy sheriffs and sent them to the mine on Marrowbone creek. About 500 men normally are employed at the mine.

Maloney's Peace
Proposed Rejected

Scranton, Jan. 30 (AP)—The peace proposal submitted by Thomas Maloney, district president of the United Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania, was rejected Monday by the Glen Alden coal company. S. D. Dimmick, general manager, declared that because of the contract between the operators and the United Mine Workers of America, the coal company cannot consider Maloney's proposal.

Sets Example For Inspection Tests

The highway patrol, which enforces the law requiring that all motor vehicles be inspected twice a year, starts its work at home.

The patrol cars and motorcycles are always among the first to carry official inspection stickers. The start of the present campaign found many of them showing stickers on January 1, while all machines were inspected and approved by the next day.

Captain Wilson G. Price, superintendent, sets the example for the patrol and motor vehicle owners generally by having his car inspected on the last day of the enforcement period to qualify for a sticker on the first day of the new campaign.

The inspection campaign extending from January 1 through March 31 will be followed by the usual three-month enforcement period.

Sets Example For Inspection Tests

The highway patrol, which enforces the law requiring that all motor vehicles be inspected twice a year, starts its work at home.

The patrol cars and motorcycles are always among the first to carry official inspection stickers. The start of the present campaign found many of them showing stickers on January 1, while all machines were inspected and approved by the next day.

Captain Wilson G. Price, superintendent, sets the example for the patrol and motor vehicle owners generally by having his car inspected on the last day of the enforcement period to qualify for a sticker on the first day of the new campaign.

The inspection campaign extending from January 1 through March 31 will be followed by the usual three-month enforcement period.

Prepares Four Suits
The colonel said he would wear next to the skin a snugly-fitting woolen garment and on top of this a strong rubber suit reaching from ankles to chin. Next will come a suit of flexible material re-enforced with steel threads calculated to withstand the pressure from within as external pressure diminishes. The aluminum outfit covers the whole.

The balloon basket will, he said, carry a short-wave radio set and several powerful cameras with specially sensitized plates.

Herrera's project has been endorsed by the Spanish National Geographic society, the National Institute of Chemistry, Society of Sciences, Society of Engineers and other organizations, and is being partly unwritten by them.

One Is Killed In Strike Clash
Pikesville, Ky., Jan. 30 (AP)—One man was killed and another wounded Monday in a clash between deputy sheriffs and striking miners at the Edgewater coal company's mine at Henry Clay.

Fearing further disorder, county officials swore in fifteen members of the local national guard company as special deputy sheriffs and sent them to the mine on Marrowbone creek. About 500 men normally are employed at the mine.

Maloney's Peace Proposed Rejected
Scranton, Jan. 30 (AP)—The peace proposal submitted by Thomas Maloney, district president of the United Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania, was rejected Monday by the Glen Alden coal company. S. D. Dimmick, general manager, declared that because of the contract between the operators and the United Mine Workers of America, the coal company cannot consider Maloney's proposal.

DILLINGER AFTER ARIZONA ARREST

'Stratosphere Suit' of Aluminum To Safeguard Spanish Balloonist

Madrid, Jan. 30 (AP)—If and when Lieutenant Colonel Emilio Herrera makes his projected balloon trip into the stratosphere to study possible plane speeds, he will resemble an artist's conception of what the well dressed Martian explorer should wear.

Regarded as an authority on lighter-than-air craft, Lieutenant Colonel Herrera recently announced he would attempt to ascend 78,000 feet, believing that at that height he could find proofs substantiating his theories of the feasibility of airplane speeds of more than 600 miles an hour.

Instead of using a sealed globe, like his predecessors in stratosphere ventures, he plans to wear a "stratosphere suit" for his own invention, riding in an open basket swung under an enormous balloon.

Will Go Aloft Alone
He intends to supplement his observations of stratospheric conditions with photographs and the suit-and-basket idea will afford him more freedom with a camera, he believes than would a closed metal ball with windows.

The "stratosphere suit" will protect him, Colonel Herrera says, against the intense cold, and will permit regulation of atmospheric pressure in relation to his body, and at the same time give him full freedom of movement. He plans to go aloft alone.

He sketched for the Associated Press his conception of how he will look. The result suggests a deep-sea diver wearing a gas mask.

The suit will be electrically heated and will carry oxygen tanks with a pressure of 150 atmospheres and potassium tanks for the absorption of exhaled hydrogen. It will be made of steel-re-enforced aluminum.

Chinese Ex-Premier Is Ready To Enter Catholic Priesthood

Bruges, Belgium, Jan. 30 (AP)—A Chinese diplomat who became a monk in the Abbey of St. Andre near here, is to be ordained as priest in the Roman Catholic church. He is Dom Pierre Celestin Tseng-tsan, sixty-four-year-old native of Shanghai, who entered the abbey in 1927.

As a diplomat, he served as Chinese minister to Holland from 1905-'11, was a delegate to the second Hague Peace conference, and in 1911 served as minister to Russia. Returning to China, he became premier and minister for foreign affairs. He became the chief Chinese delegate to the Paris Peace conference in 1919 and from 1922 to 1927 served as minister to Switzerland. He was also Chinese delegate to the League of Nations assembly and the International Labor conference.

An author as well as a monk, he has just published a booklet entitled "The Invasion and Occupation of Manchuria. Considered in the Light of the Catholic Doctrine and the Writings of Cardinal Mercier." The booklet, besides carrying a portrait of Cardinal Mercier and of Ma Lang, the nonagenarian Chinese savant, reproduces in Chinese letters the text of the manifesto published by Ma Lang appealing to his fellow countrymen to rise and call for the restoration to China "of her rivers and mountains seized by brutal force by the Japanese."

The Chinese rendering of the author-monk's name is Lu Chen-hsiang, but he prefers the French rendering, Lu Tseng-tsan.

FOUR NUNS AND DRIVER MISSING; CAR IN CANAL
Watertown, N. Y., Jan. 30 (AP)—Belief that four nuns and their driver had drowned in a canal at Black River was expressed Sunday night after discovery that an automobile had crashed through a guard rail, rolled down a fifteen-foot embankment and dropped into twenty feet of water.

Efforts of grapplers to locate the automobile had not been successful.

He BROUGHT ME to the HOUSE where I HAD BURIED my Bitter PAST

As I stepped from the car my heart leaped—I recognized the house . . .
The house on 56th Street—where long ago I had buried my shattered dreams of love. It was too late to turn back. As gently as though I were a bride Elaine led me upstairs—to the very room where my baby was born.

Suddenly out of my past rose these memories . . . so real . . . that I shuddered as Elaine pressed kisses upon my frozen lips.

Device Warns Of Quake Destruction

Cambridge, Mass. (AP)—A seismographic eye, which will forewarn of earthquake destruction, was announced at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The eye is a spidery gadget, no bigger than the palm of one hand. It can "see" and map the heaving stresses in the walls of a building during an earthquake. Most of the loss of life comes from these stresses, and engineers have been unable to compute them in advance to any great extent.

The eye is able to forecast these forces from a small model building, when it is shaken by a laboratory tremor. The instrument was designed by A. C. Runge, research engineer in the department of civil engineering. It is made of mirrors, lenses, prisms, electric spark apparatus and a tuning fork. The whole outfit weighs only a few ounces. Fixed on a wall it directs a pencil point of light upon a moving film, there tracing the stresses in an endless curve. The spark and tuning fork combine to flash a time signal and register it beside the curve. This enables an engineer to calculate to the thousandth of a second the duration of each stress.

He BROUGHT ME
to the HOUSE where I HAD BURIED
my Bitter PAST

As I stepped from the car my heart leaped—I recognized the house . . .
The house on 56th Street—where long ago I had buried my shattered dreams of love. It was too late to turn back. As gently as though I were a bride Elaine led me upstairs—to the very room where my baby was born. Suddenly out of my past rose these memories . . . so real . . . that I shuddered as Elaine pressed kisses upon my frozen lips.

Device Warns Of Quake Destruction

Cambridge, Mass. AP—A new seismograph eye, which will warn of earthquake destruction, was announced at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The eye is a spider-like device, which can see the stresses in the walls of a building during an earthquake. Most of the stresses and strains occur in the walls of a building, and the eye is able to detect them in advance to any great extent.
